Letter from the CEO

Recently, I was asked what's been the most rewarding part of my tenure at Novant Health. My answer was immediate: this hospital's united commitment to remarkable care. From ER techs to administrative support, nurses to physicians, every member of our team is deeply invested in making a difference in the lives of our fellow community members.

Every day, I hear stories about how our people go the extra mile to improve the healthcare outcomes for our patients and to make their families more comfortable. I see the impact of our foundations' efforts to rally community support around our newest projects, ensuring remarkable care for generations. And I meet donors who embrace our mission and believe in our vision of what's possible. This is the power of our collective commitment to better health.

It's because of you that our Giving. Serving. Together. campaign raised more than $1.4 million dollars in 2017. It's because of you that we can continue to battle heart disease and cancer (the No. 1 and 2 killers in the United States) in new and cutting-edge ways. It's because of you that we can expand services into more areas and help vulnerable patient populations find the treatment they need to thrive. Your work and support have enabled Novant Health to connect new mothers to valuable resources, to create a more welcoming environment through the addition of new break rooms and gardens, and so much more. Thank you for your continued support, and I look forward to all the next year holds in store.

Kind regards,

Carl S. Armato

President and chief executive officer, Novant Health

The John M. and Claudia W. Belk Heart and Vascular Institute and Edward I. and Agnes B. Weisiger Cancer Institute will create an environment conducive to personalized patient care, improving accessibility, increasing affordability, improving care coordination and providing evidence-based care.

"I am proud to partner with Novant Health to bring critical health services to underserved areas of Charlotte and the thousands of North Carolinians with limited access to healthcare. It is my hope that these clinics will help provide a brighter and healthier future for the children and families they serve."

- Michael Jordan

Novant Health Michael Jordan Family Clinics

Michael Jordan announced a $7 million gift to open a Novant Health Michael Jordan Family Clinic on Freedom Drive and Statesville Avenue in Charlotte, North Carolina. These comprehensive medical clinics will serve some of the most at-risk and underserved communities in Charlotte and are expected to open in late 2020.

Novant Health Michael Jordan Family Clinic renderings

The Novant Health Michael Jordan Family Clinics will provide vital access to primary and preventive care to individuals in the community who have little or no healthcare. By providing an avenue to affordable, high-quality care — including behavioral health, physical therapy, social work and family planning — children and families will have a stable, integrative medical home to address their healthcare needs right in their neighborhoods.

Community wellness and access to affordable and quality healthcare are some of the most significant challenges facing our nation. According to U.S. Census Bureau data, more than 100,000 Charlotteans do not have health insurance. Families living in underserved communities face barriers, including difficulty accessing preventive, primary and mental health services, as well as a lack of an integrative and comprehensive approach to healthcare. With the opening of these two flagship clinics, Novant Health and Michael Jordan will create access to high-quality healthcare in areas identified by the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Opportunity Task Force as the most at-risk for generational poverty.

Over five years, the Novant Health Michael Jordan Family Clinics are projected to care for nearly 35,000 children and adults who do not currently have access to primary and preventive care or who use the emergency room for nonurgent medical needs.

The clinics have the potential to decrease emergency room utilization by 68 percent and decrease hospitalization by 37 percent for the residents of these neighborhoods. Resulting benefits from these clinics will include improved patient care, better community wellness and a reduction in the total cost of medical care. Through the opening of these two clinics, Novant Health and Jordan are investing in the health of Charlotte and supporting the ongoing efforts of the larger community to provide access to quality, affordable healthcare to all Charlotteans.

“Sherry and I are incredibly proud to partner with Novant Health to make a meaningful impact on patients while supporting causes that have touched our hearts and our lives. We hope that our contributions will provide healthy and positive outcomes for adults living with cancer and children who need specialized emergency medical care.”

- Martin Truex Jr.

Martin Truex Jr. & Sherry Pollex gift

Martin Truex Jr., the 2017 Monster Energy NASCAR Cup Series champion, and his longtime girlfriend, Sherry Pollex, made a $1.2 million gift to fund two health initiatives close to their hearts.

A portion of the gift will establish the Novant Health Martin Truex Jr. Foundation Children’s Emergency Department. Scheduled to open at Novant Health Huntersville Medical Center in 2019, the Martin Truex Jr. Foundation Children’s Emergency Department will be the only one of its kind devoted exclusively to caring for children and teens 24 hours a day, seven days a week serving the Lake Norman communities. Designed to meet the needs of children and their families, it will include a colorful waiting room, a triage room, nine private exam rooms and the most advanced child-sized medical equipment. Physicians, nurses and other medical providers specially trained in pediatric emergency medicine will staff the new unit.

The second part of the gift will establish the Novant Health SherryStrong Integrative Medicine Oncology Clinic, which will be housed in the new John M. and Claudia W. Belk Heart and Vascular Institute and Edward I. and Agnes B. Weisiger Cancer Institute. The SherryStrong Integrative Medicine Oncology Clinic will enhance the current Novant Health integrative medicine program, which takes a holistic approach to managing the physical and emotional effects of cancer treatment, recovery and survivorship by combining a range of complementary therapies and healthy lifestyle practices with modern medicine. Diagnosed with stage 3 ovarian cancer in 2014, Pollex suffered a recurrence in 2016 that required surgery to remove her spleen. She has completed her final round of chemotherapy and throughout her treatment used the best conventional medical care with carefully selected complementary, integrative therapies to help optimize her health. It is her hope that the new clinic will enable others to do the same.

Novant Health Agnes Binder Weisiger Breast Center

Agnes Binder Weisiger donated $750,000 to Novant Health Presbyterian Medical Center Foundation to renovate the Novant Health Breast Center. Beginning in 2019, the renovation will triple the size of the Breast Center located in the medical tower adjacent to Presbyterian Medical Center, from 5,000 square feet to 15,000 square feet.

In addition to creating a spa-like atmosphere that will put patients at ease, the state-of-the-art facility will include 3D mammogram technology. This advanced imaging can detect even the smallest potential breast tumors, all while reducing false positives. With increased precision, we can reduce patient anxiety and decrease the number of follow-up procedures.

Soon, the facility will become a one-stop location for all breast health needs, featuring the best available breast cancer technologies and services, including walk-in diagnostic and screening mammography, needle localizations, breast sonography, computer-assisted diagnosis for all screening mammography, digital mammography and breast ultrasound. Should a cancer diagnosis occur, the Anges Binder Weisiger Breast Center will connect patients to surgical services at the new Edward I. and Agnes B. Weisiger Cancer Institute.

Features to come:

- » Spa atmosphere
- » 3D mammogram technology
- » Walk-in diagnostic
- » Screening mammography
- » Needle localizations
- » Breast sonography
- » Computer-assisted diagnosis-es
- » Digital mammography
- » Breast ultrasound

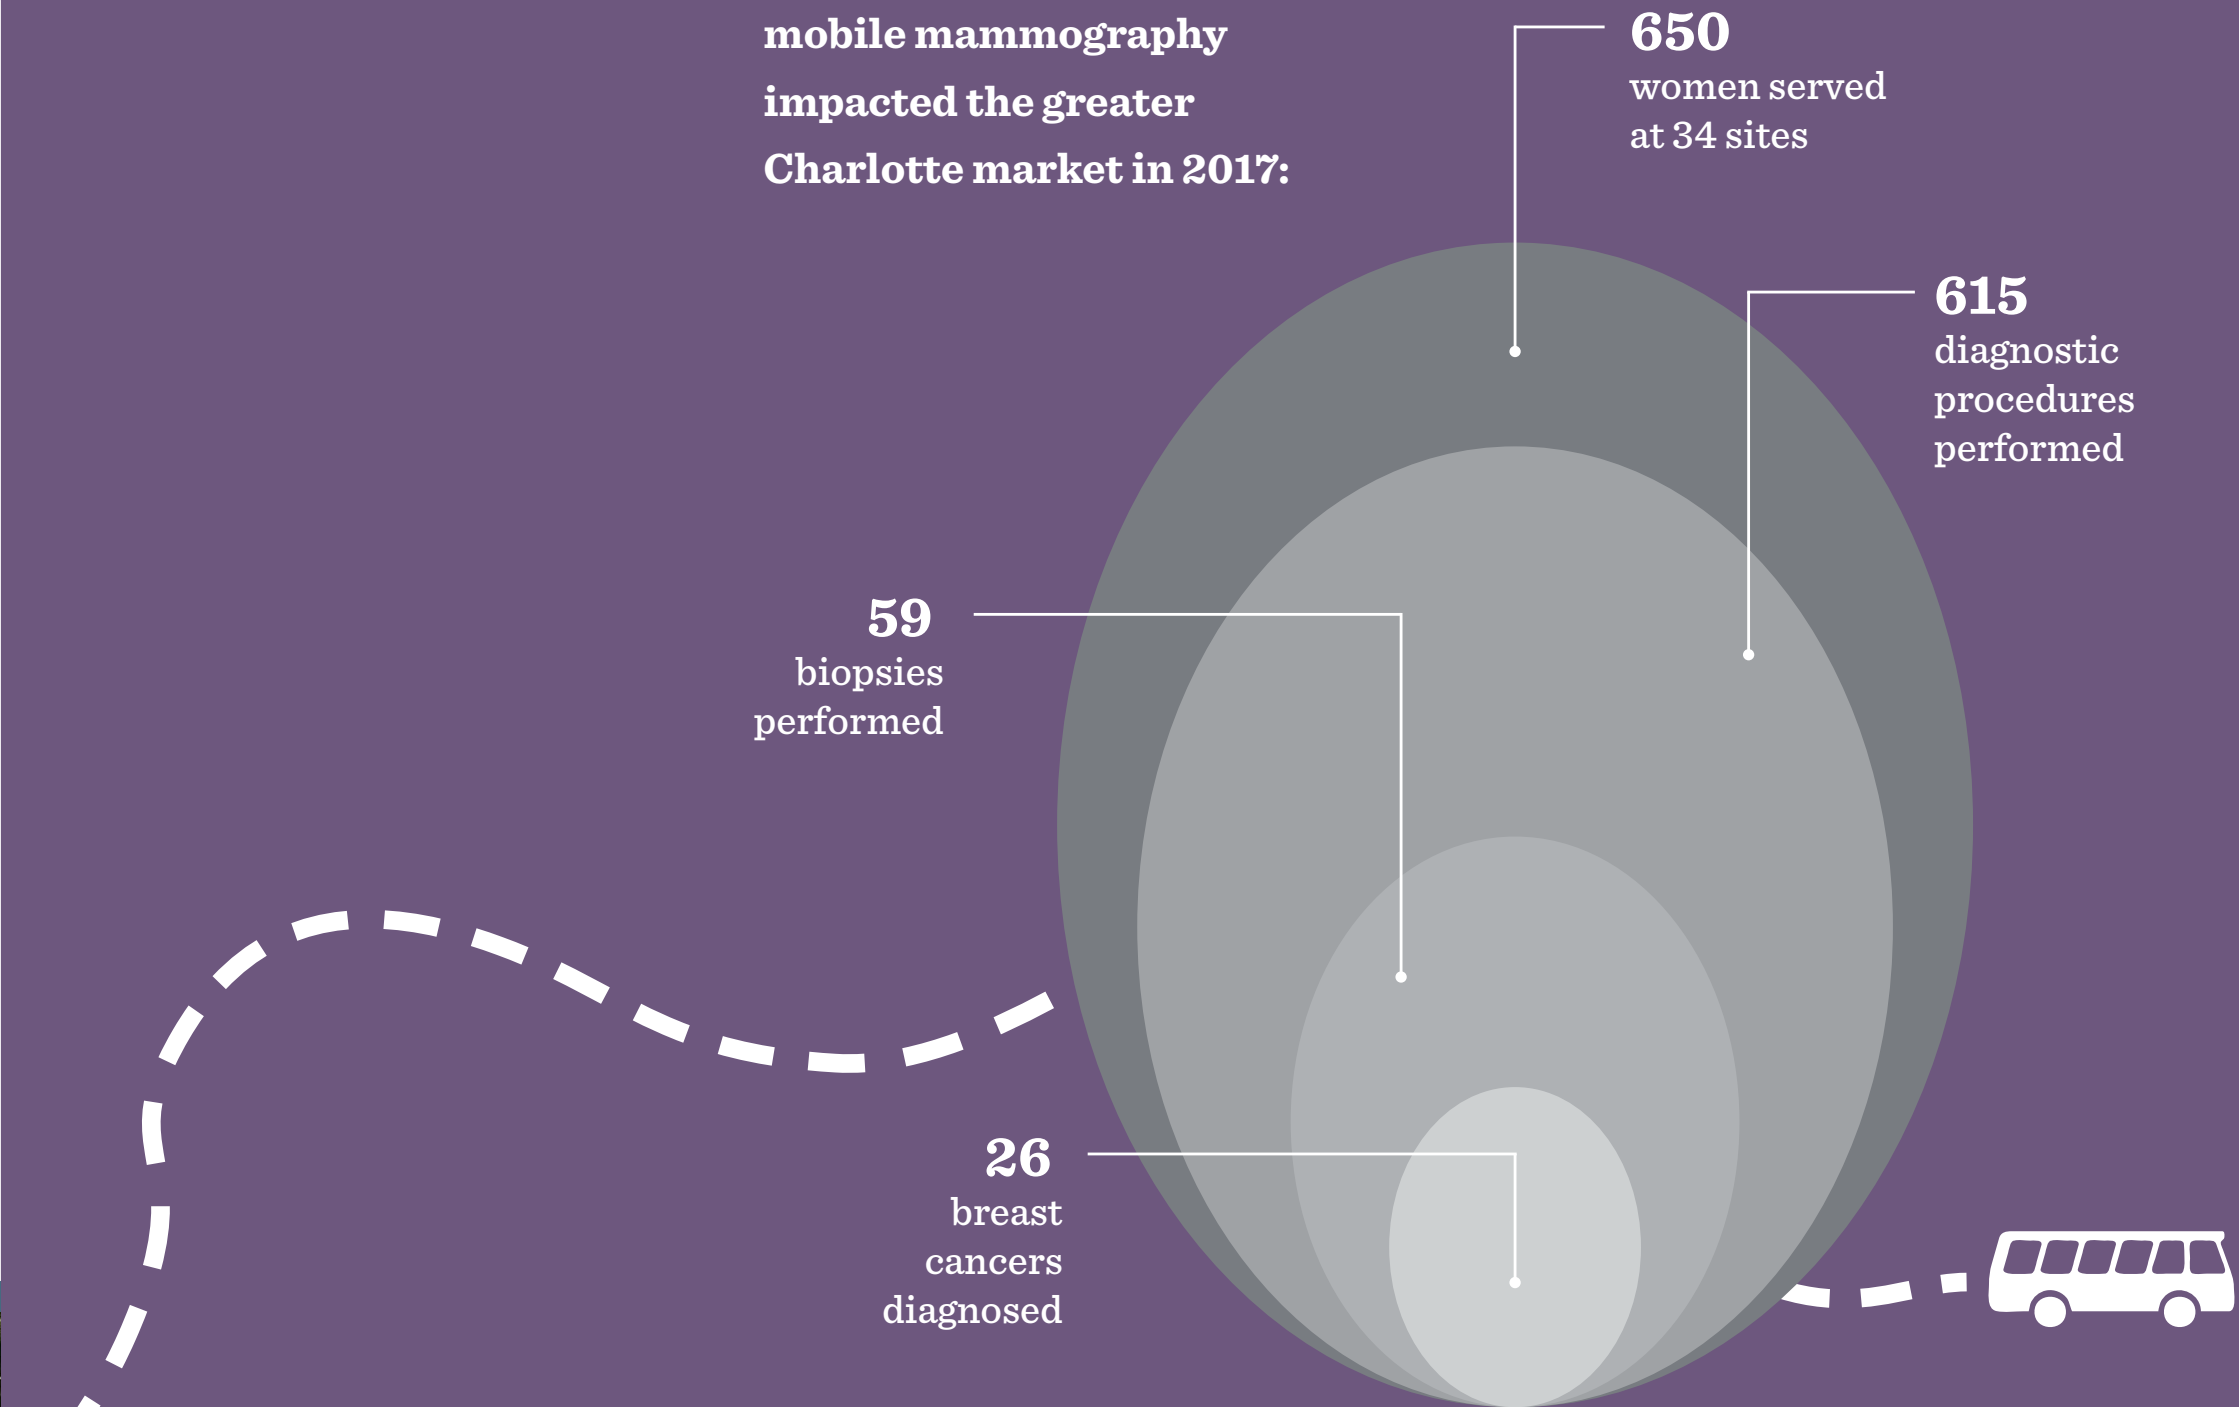

Mobile mammography unit with 3D technology

Agnes and Ed Weisiger donated $800,000 to Novant Health Presbyterian Medical Center Foundation for a new mobile mammography unit with 3D technology. As demand for mobile mammography increases in the greater Charlotte market, this second unit will perform an additional 25 to 30 screenings per day, connecting more women with access to care.

Hitting the road summer 2018, this second unit will treat women where they live, work, attend civic activities and take part in faith-based services. The focus is to provide better healthcare to women of all ages, regardless of their ability to pay.

Here's a look at how mobile mammography impacted the greater Charlotte market in 2017:

Kiser fund grants

The purpose of the Kiser fund is to honor the late Dr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Kiser and their commitment to quality health services at Novant Health Rowan Medical Center. It supports projects that improve patient care.

The Kiser fund committee accepts applications for funding from all areas of Rowan Medical Center without preference to any one department or service line.

In 2017, the Kiser fund committee awarded $360,694 in grants to support behavioral health, interventional radiology, intermediate care and critical care.

Kiser fund grant recipients

Nurse Ashley with new heart monitor

Interventional radiology team with microwave ablation system

Nurse Jayme with new MRI infusion pump

Grant amount	Department	Purpose
$112,285	Behavioral health	» Thirteen behavioral health Sizewise beds providing security enhancements necessary for the safety of patients in the mental health environment.
$147,350	Interventional radiology	» Microwave ablation system for patients who do not have the option of radiation or chemotherapy. Microwave ablation is a minimally invasive outpatient procedure that uses electromagnetic waves to generate soft tissue necrosis in the liver, lung and kidney.
$50,000	Intermediate care	» Four heart monitors for patients in the intermediate care unit requiring a continuous electrocardiogram, pulse oximetry and frequent blood pressure monitoring.
$9,059	Critical care	» Ten wireless scanners to improve patient safety when scanning a patient, IV pump and IV medication infusing.
$42,000	Critical care/IMU	» MRI infusion pump to provide MRI diagnostic testing to critically ill patients requiring IV infusions to sustain life while having a MRI.

Novant Health Cancer Center

As of December 2017, more than $2 million has been raised to support Novant Health Rowan Medical Center Foundation’s $12 million capital campaign to support the construction of a state-of-the-art Cancer Center. It is on track to reach its $12 million goal by December 2018. The center will tackle some of the most difficult and complicated medical challenges today while providing the community a means of facing issues that may confront our region in the future. The Cancer Center will profoundly impact patient quality of life by personalizing patient-centered care, improving accessibility, increasing affordability, enhancing care coordination and providing leading-edge treatment.

It has been rewarding to see how engaged our team members across the facility are. From car washes to yard sales, they are leaving no stone unturned to ensure this project happens! Cancer touches us all.”

Novant Health Oncology Specialists phase I clinical trial

The Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center Foundation board of directors approved a $3 million investment in phase I clinical trials to be administered by Novant Health Oncology Specialists at the Derrick L. Davis Cancer Center. New medical advancements are made possible through our clinical research trials, giving patients access to advanced treatment options for various conditions. Phase 1 research involves administering newly designed chemotherapy drugs to patients enrolled in the research trial. The objective of a phase I research trial is to help determine the medication dosage that can safely be administered to patients and evaluate potential side effects of the drug as well as its ultimate impact on cancer.

The administration of drugs in a phase I research trial requires that patients involved in the study be closely monitored at all times for potential side effects. Our clinical research team consists of physicians, nurses, social workers and other healthcare professionals who will ensure patients have everything they need for a comfortable experience.

Forsyth Connects

Mothers of newborn babies in Forsyth County are entitled to a free in-home nurse visit courtesy of Forsyth Connects, a department of Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center. Through grants provided by Kate B. Reynolds Charitable Trust and The Duke Endowment, the program connects Novant Health registered nurses with every mother within two to four weeks after the birth of a baby, no matter where they delivered.

Forsyth Connects nurses may visit with the family one to three times, depending on their unique needs and schedule to offer support, education and information. Research shows that when families participate in this program model, mothers feel less anxious and their babies need less emergency care at hospitals. This all adds up to a positive impact on our community.

Here’s how nurses with Forsyth Connects help new mothers in Forsyth County:

- | | |
|---|---|
|  Baby weight check |  Management of infant crying |
|  Mom health check |  Playgroups and parent support groups |
|  Breastfeeding help |  Healthy home connections |
|  Back-to-work support |  Postpartum depression/anxiety screening |
|  Parent/infant bonding | |

The mission of Forsyth Connects is to support the healthcare needs of mothers and babies and to connect them with resources that nurture the whole family. The program does not have an income eligibility requirement, which sets the program apart from similar home visitation initiatives.

2017-2018 Forsyth Connects stats:

- » On average, nurses provided visits to 60 percent of babies on Medicaid, 39 percent of babies under private insurance and 1 percent of babies identified as self-pay.
- » Nurses offered services to 92 percent of Forsyth County mothers.
- » Nurses visited 164 homes on average per month, completing nearly 2,000 initial integrated home visits.
- » 3,632 mothers were offered a home visit by a nurse.
- » 2,749 home visits were scheduled, representing a 75.6 percent acceptance rate. Nurses completed 1,963 initial integrated home visits, 84 follow-up visits and 50 preintegrated home visits.*

The preintegrated home visit is a shortened visit scheduled within a few days of hospital discharge to help with immediate needs, such as problems with breastfeeding.*

Nurse breakroom renovations

Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center Foundation invested $1.78 million to renovate 112 nurses' breakrooms and a few nursing stations across Forsyth Medical Center. This project was spearheaded by Denise Mihal, executive vice president and chief nursing and clinical operations officer, in response to comments she heard during a listening tour in 2016. It was clear that the breakrooms needed a refresh: new paint, lockers, flooring, furniture and appliances. Most of these spaces were uninviting and outdated. The Forsyth Medical Center Foundation board of directors was eager to support team members who are caring for our patients.

Having a comfortable space to take a break and eat during the shift creates a feeling of respect and care for the team members at Novant Health. Team members are grateful to be able to have a real break, away from the hustle and bustle and noise of the busy units. Novant Health's renovations to the breakrooms and nursing stations, which are aesthetically pleasing and comfortable, promote a healthy work environment and culture.”

Novant Health Clemmons Medical Center healing garden

Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center Foundation donors supported a healing garden at Clemmons Medical Center, bringing the healing power of nature to the facility. The new garden officially opened with the addition of the new inpatient wing at the hospital. The garden is adjacent to the hospital’s transitional care and infusion suite and is visible to patients, family members and Novant Health team members.

The Advance Garden Club partners with the medical center to maintain and enhance the garden area. Sharon

Murphy, who retired as head of the Derrick L. Davis Cancer Center at Forsyth Medical Center, spearheads the project and is also a big proponent for the healing power of nature. “Club members take turns planting, weeding and watering the plants throughout the

“When you’re sick like I am, you can start feeling sorry for yourself. The garden outside the infusion room gives me a chance to sit quietly and get my mind off everything. I’m an outdoors person, and I love sitting in a garden. Looking at this garden, I feel like I’m sitting in the middle of God’s coloring book.”

-Margaret Marsh
Patient

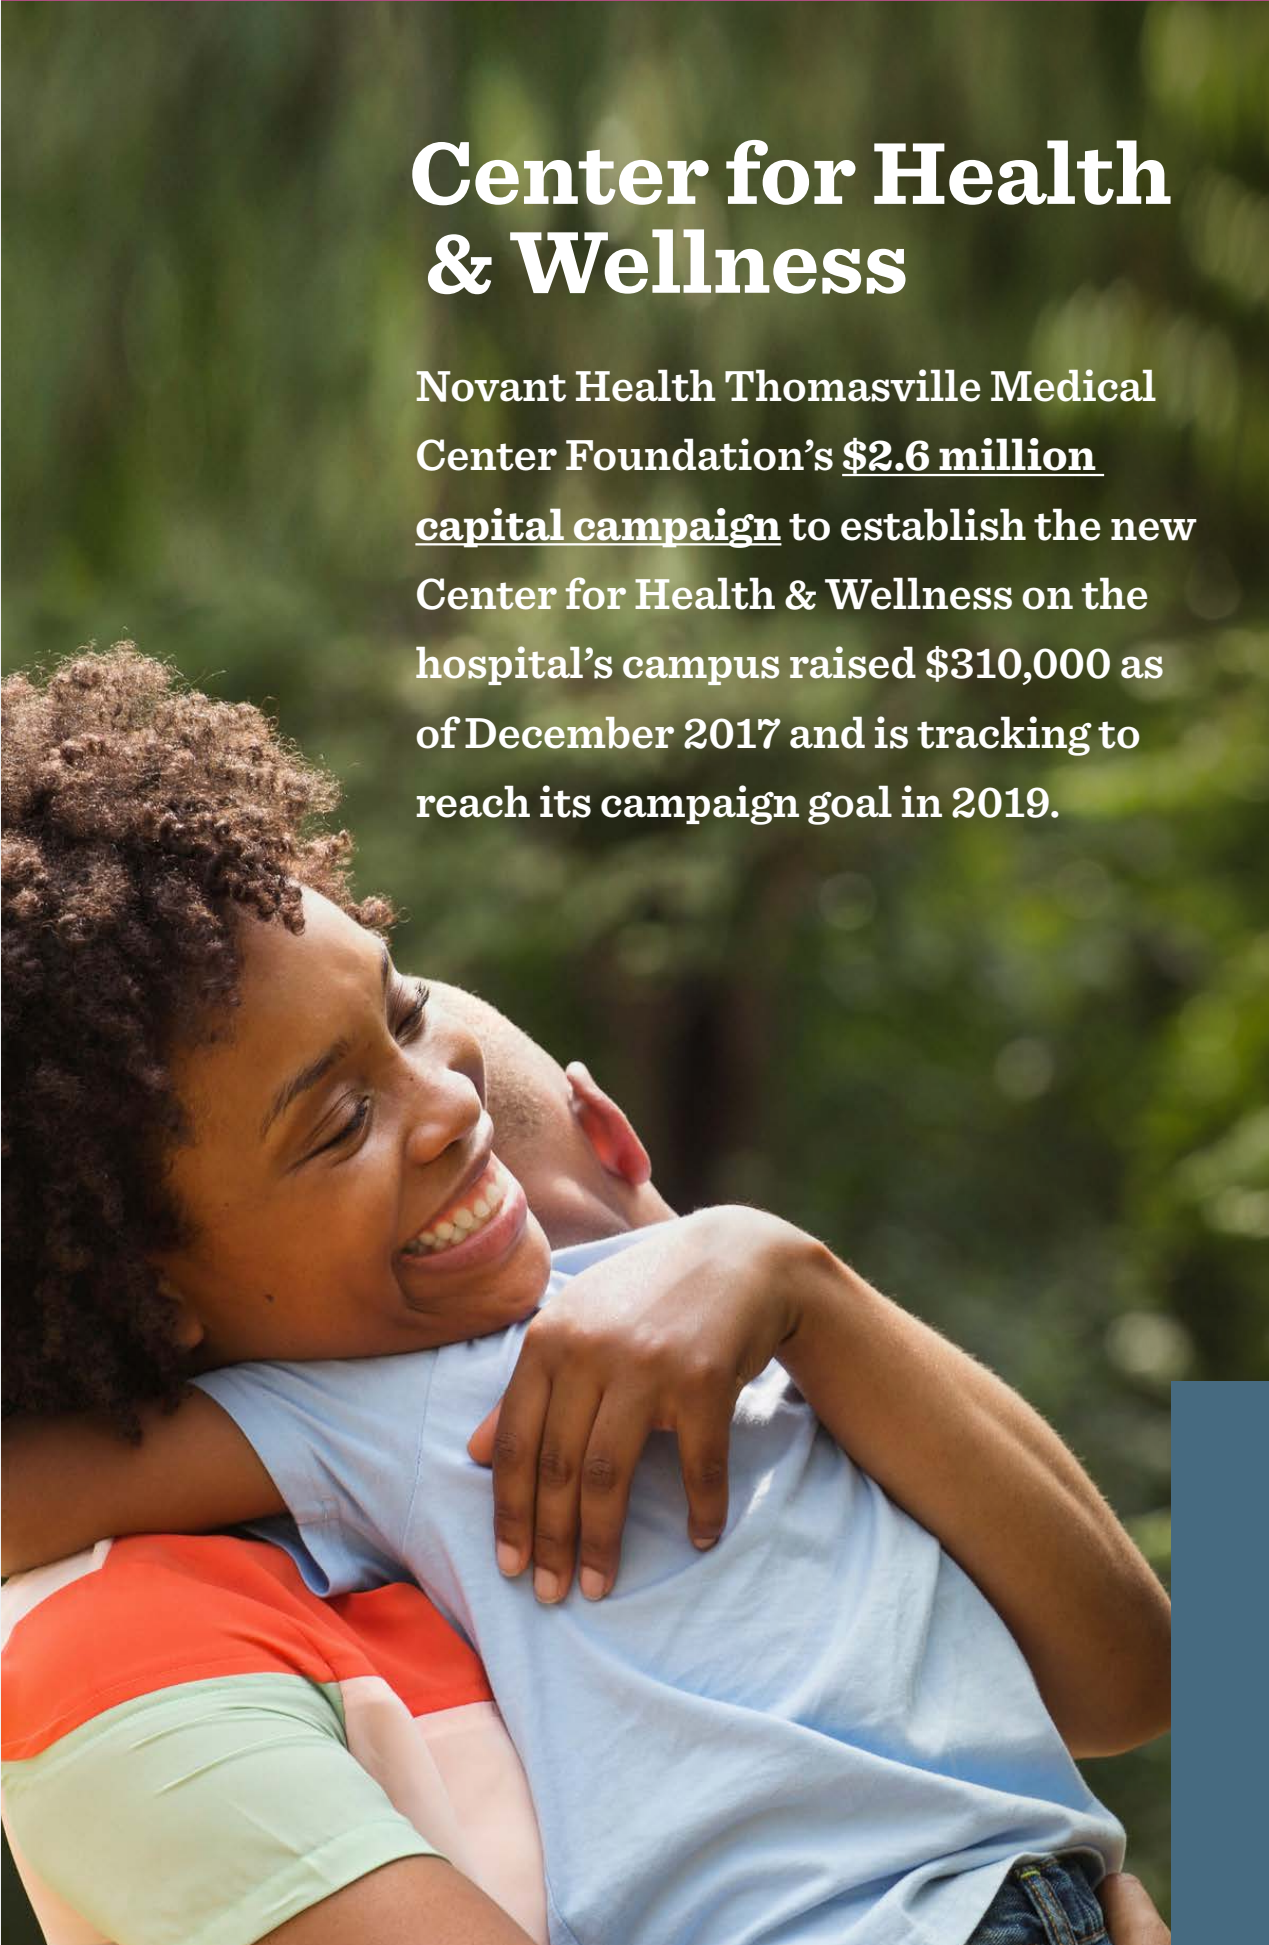

“We frequently receive comments from patients receiving infusions that it is a wonderful place to receive care with large windows, natural light and the garden as a backdrop. Visitors and team members alike take advantage of the space, and words like ‘calming’ and ‘refreshing’ are descriptors that come up often.”

Center for Health & Wellness

Novant Health Thomasville Medical Center Foundation’s $2.6 million capital campaign to establish the new Center for Health & Wellness on the hospital’s campus raised $310,000 as of December 2017 and is tracking to reach its campaign goal in 2019.

Programs, services and amenities the new center will offer:

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--|
| Cardiac rehabilitation | Outpatient physical rehabilitation |
| Smoking cessation classes | Adult and adolescent obesity education |
| Demonstration kitchen | Occupational medicine and physical therapy |
| Nutrition counseling and classes | Baby Café for breastfeeding mothers |
| Outpatient behavioral health services | Patient navigation support group |
| Chronic disease management | ConnectionLink program for senior citizens |
| Diabetes education | |

The Center for Health & Wellness campaign is led by a cabinet that spearheads community messaging and implements ways to best engage donors throughout our area. In addition to identifying potential donors, cabinet members look for opportunities to inspire charitable giving throughout the region.

“I am told that this is the largest capital campaign ever undertaken in the city of Thomasville and am excited about the opportunity to be a part of something this historic, especially considering what it can mean in improved healthcare for Thomasville and outlying communities.”

Inaugural Jane Burt Williams Memorial Golf Classic

The Novant Health Thomasville Medical Center Foundation renamed its annual golf fundraising event to memorialize a dedicated community member. The Jane Burt Williams Memorial Golf Classic is named after the devoted late wife of David Robert Williams Sr., MD. Mrs. Williams was a servant leader, known for her humbleness and caring spirit. Her dedication to serving the community through countless hours of volunteering was simply remarkable.

The fundraiser was held on Friday, Oct. 6, 2017, at Colonial Country Club in Thomasville, North Carolina. A shotgun start was followed by a fun afternoon of great golf, delicious food and beverages. The event was attended by 110 golfers. Jon Applebaum, president and chief operating officer, was the guest putter for the hole-in-one contest on the 18th green. The overall tournament team winners were Mark Smith, MD, Marcus Smith, Eric Lance and Jason Gentile. The tournament raised $33,000, which will support renovations of the former health department building located on the northeast campus of Thomasville Medical Center. Once renovations are completed, the new Center for Health & Wellness will support Novant Health’s missions by promoting healthy lifestyles for residents in Davidson County and the surrounding community.

A Path Forward behavioral health campaign

Across the United States, behavioral health systems are fragmented and difficult to navigate. One in five adults — 40 million Americans — have a mental health condition. In Brunswick County, there is one provider for every 1,267 residents, compared to one provider for every 472 residents in North Carolina. Patients experience significant wait times — sometimes days — for placement, and there is great need for secure space to keep patients safe, specially trained staff to provide care and comprehensive telepsychiatry services.

To help solve this challenge, Novant Health Brunswick Medical Center Foundation launched a $3.5 million capital campaign to support behavioral health. Funds raised will be used to expand Brunswick Medical Center’s emergency department to create a separate eight-bed wing for behavioral health patients. This expansion will reduce wait times, help keep patients safe and include technology for telehealth and specialized staff trained to care for behavioral health patients.

Additional campaign features include:

Improved transportation services for behavioral health patients

Increased access to outpatient services by hiring additional psychiatrists & therapist

Intensive outpatient & partial hospitalization programs

Creating a psychiatric assessment center

The cabinet for A Path Forward meets regularly to discuss how best to raise awareness of our area’s need for these vital services and how best to position the benefits of potential investment. In addition to project messaging, they seek out potential donors, establish campaign timelines, and implement strategies to ensure the project meets its goals.

Did you know ...

1. The Brunswick County school system has 19 schools served by 12 nurses and five social workers. The No. 1 problem identified by nurses is anxiety in students.

- Anxiety disorders affect 25 percent of children between the ages of 13 and 18.
2. Depression is the leading cause of disability worldwide and is the 10th leading cause of death in the United States.
3. North Carolina saw a 47 percent increase in heroin overdose deaths from 2014 to 2015, and a 27 percent increase in overdose fatalities from 2010 to 2015 in Brunswick County.

Prescription assistance program

Our nation’s veterans have made incredible contributions and sacrifices on behalf of the greater good. And yet, they are often prevented from quickly accessing the medical care they need. After a hospital discharge, many vets are unable to fill their prescriptions until they see their regular physician at the VA or the VA is able to review their prescription. This process can take one to two weeks. Through Novant Health Brunswick Medical Center Foundation’s prescription assistance fund, our veteran patients are given a prescription voucher to have any new medicines filled so they can start taking them immediately. New prescriptions are especially important for our blood pressure and heart medicine patients as well as patients who need an antibiotic. Through this service, veterans are able to receive vital medication as soon as possible — ensuring faster recoveries and reducing the risk of readmissions.

Behavioral health crisis teleassessment

The 27th annual Friends of the Foundation Golf Tournament raised nearly $30,000 for behavioral health crisis teleassessment. Novant Health UVA Health System Prince William Medical Center’s behavioral health access team is an experienced, multidisciplinary team that provides timely screenings of patients facing mental health and addiction emergencies. Each year, close to 2,500 patients are assessed by this specialized team in person and via teleassessment, including more than 400 patients at Novant Health UVA Health System Haymarket Medical Center’s emergency department.

Funds raised by the golf tournament support the expansion of the healthcare system’s behavioral health crisis teleassessment to 24-hour, 7-days-a-week access to patients in each Novant Health UVA Health System emergency department. This reduces the time the patient spends in the emergency department. The goal is to have the crisis assessment completed and disposition recommended to a physician within two hours from the time the original consult was ordered.

Novant Health UVA
Health System Pro-Am

Through Novant Health UVA Health System Prince William Medical Center Foundation’s annual Pro-Am, nearly $70,000 was raised to support cancer services at Novant Health UVA Health System Cancer Center.

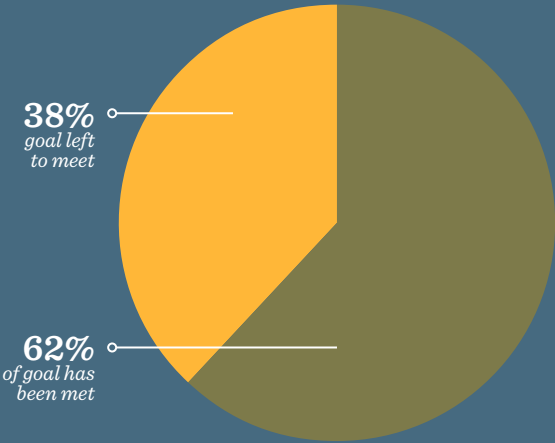

Community art gallery

Novant Health UVA Health System Prince William Medical Center Foundation partnered with Prince William County Schools’ fine arts department to display the Reuse, Recycle, Reimagine student art exhibit at Novant Health UVA Health System Haymarket Medical Center. Reuse, Recycle, Reimagine was the first of three community art exhibits to be shared in the hospital’s community art gallery.

Healing garden

The Novant Health UVA Health System Prince William Medical Center Foundation raised 62 percent of its goal for the healing garden at Prince William Medical Center. This green space within the healthcare facility aims to improve health outcomes and will be located in front of Prince William Medical Center’s newly renovated main entrance.
