Novant Health Foundation:

Helping the behind-the-scenes heroes who keep our facilities up and running

Having served his country for 10 years in the U.S. Coast Guard, James Blount now serves his community as a chef and cashier at Novant Health Kernersville Medical Center. He has cooked professionally for decades, but his purpose goes far beyond the food.

James Blount, Novant Health Kernersville Medical Center

His mission is to nourish people, specifically the individuals who come to his cafeteria. Whether it's through food, words of encouragement or a simple prayer, Blount considers it his job to feed the body and the soul. Every so often, he'll even pick up the tab himself to ensure no one goes without a warm meal regardless of their ability to afford one.

When the COVID-19 pandemic began, safety protocols were implemented, including reducing the cafeteria's access and hours. Blount didn't know how he was going to pay rent, but he learned from a coworker about the Hope for Remarkable Team Aubergine Fund (formerly the Novant Health COVID-19 Disaster Relief Fund). He applied and was unsure if he would hear anything back. But to his surprise and joy, he received aid to cover his rent for an entire month.

Honored and grateful, he exclaimed, "One more month gives me a fighting chance."
